Redmen Face Verdun In Schedule Windup; Navy Tilt for Nightcap

Game Determines Second Place Fraser Farlinger May Not Play

The McGill Redmen will complete their Quebec Rugby Football Union schedule tomorrow afternoon at Molson Stadium when they take on George Elton's Verdun Grads in the opening game of a twin bill. The battle will determine the second place squad in the Q.R.F.U., as the Grads and McGill are tied in the league standings at present.

The tilt will commence about 1:30, as the curtain raiser to the pigskin doubleheader. The Don-naconna and Ste. Hyacinthe Navy crew will meet the Halifax Sailors in the nightcap. This program guarantees plenty of action and a large crowd is expected.

Farlinger Injured

The Red and White stalwarts suffered a severe blow when it was announced that Fraser Farlinger, plucky centre half, will be a doubtful starter in tomorrow's game against the Verdunites. Farlinger injured his leg in last week's Navy game, and has been unable to participate in practices all week. Farlinger has been a sparkplug in the McGill backfield all season, and if he is unable to play the Redmen will miss him badly.

The injury bogey has played havoc with the Kerr Klan this year.

Offer Physicians Courses In Hygiene at U. of M.

Post graduate courses in public hygiene will be open soon in the micro-biological institute of the University of Montreal for the benefit of doctors wishing to specialize, it was announced by Hon. Albini Paquette, Quebec Minister of Health.

Mr. Paquette said that with the creation of, or extension of health clinics and other health preserving organizations throughout the province, it would soon become necessary to retain the services of a number of specialists in public hygiene.

Inter University Club Discusses Constitution

Pierre Vaillancourt
Elected President
At First Meeting

The "Inter University Club" held its first meeting last night in the Union. An Executive was elected, the constitution was read and approved. The Executive consists of: President, Pierre Vaillancourt; Vice-President, May Ebbitt; Secretary for U. of M., Louis Dupuy; Secretary for McGill, Louis Ferguson; Treasurer, Dave Schwartzman.

The meeting was opened with a speech of Pierre Vaillancourt. May Ebbitt then spoke. Following this, the constitution was read, article by article, first in French, then in English.

One article was challenged by Dave Schwartzman, McGill Honour student in Economics. A "heated" debate followed, at the conclusion of which it was carried, that two clauses should be struck out of the constitution. These clauses dealt with proportional membership, which was at first fixed at 50% McGill and U. of M.

Other topics discussed, included the clause, that the President should be chosen each year, from the other University. Another point of debate was, whether members of Schools affiliated with the Universities should be admitted as members. The meeting was attended by a large number of students.

Daily Opens New Lecture Series

Gazette Night Editor,
Adam Marshall,
Gives First Talk

Adam S. Marshall, night city-editor of The Montreal Gazette, will address a gathering of Daily staff-members on the subject of his experiences in metropolitan newspaper work, at 4:30 p.m., Monday, in the McGill Union.

First speaker in The Daily's new series of lectures by professional newspapermen, Mr. Marshall was Editor-in-Chief of The Daily during the session 1931-32. Subsequently he joined the staff of The Gazette, where he is now in charge of the night news-department.

Mr. Marshall was present as guest at the annual banquet held by The Daily last March, it was pointed out in a statement issued yesterday by the Managing-Board. "In view of his long-standing connections with our newspaper, and of his wide experience in the field of journalism, we welcome Adam Marshall as the most appropriate initiator of this second series of discussions, which has been planned to give a view of journalism beyond the scope of The Daily itself," the statement added.

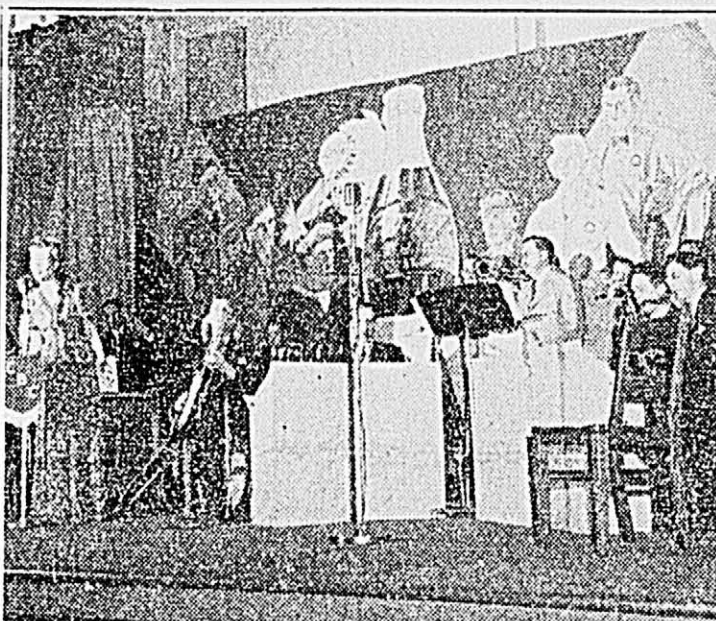

The address by Mr. Marshall will last from 4:30 until 5:30 p.m. The earlier plan had been to follow the usual 5 to 6 p.m. schedule, but this was found impossible.

Currie Gymnasium Is Scene Of This Year's First Formal

Dancing from 10 p.m. to 3 a.m. with Dinner
Served Cabaret Style Is Main
Program Offered by Prom

First formal of the college year, the Junior Prom, will feature the music of Mart Kenney and his Western Gentlemen in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium at ten p.m. tonight. Formal dress will be worn, and a previous announcement stated that only corsages bought at the door may be taken into the ballroom. Tickets at $4.50 will be on sale at the Tuck Shop, and Arts, Med. and Engineering building until late today.

PROVIDE MUSIC FOR DANCE TONIGHT

MART KENNEY and his "Western Gentlemen," who are providing the music for the Junior Prom tonight. A special arrangement was made with the band's radio sponsors, in order to permit Kenney, who was scheduled to be in Three Rivers today, to play at McGill tonight.

ANNUAL EVENT

The Junior Prom has been an annual event for many years. A spokesman for this year's committee has stated that the services of Mart Kenney's band were procured only after a great deal of difficulty.

Although dress for the occasion will be formal, the committee has stated that it is following the usual war-time procedure of strongly discouraging the wearing of corsages. Those wearing them will be obliged to check them before entering. However flowers are obtainable at the door for fifty cents.

It was announced that the members of the three military units at McGill have received permission to

Students Council Approves Vets

Hears Correspondence
Concerning N.F.C. U.S.;
Passes Budgets

Full approval of the constitution of the McGill Student Veterans Society was voiced by a meeting of the Students' Executive Council held in the Union last night. Correspondence on the National Federation of Canadian University Students was read, a report from the Council's committee on a McGill University Conference was heard, and the budgets of the Debating Union Society and of the Players' Club were approved.

Having listened to the representations of two members of the Veterans' Society concerning the provisional approval granted the Society at the last meeting of the Council, a motion was carried fully approving the Society's constitution.

A report from the University of Toronto on the subject of N.F.C. U.S. was read to the Council by the chairman, John Costigan, after another letter on the same topic had been heard. The Council's committee investigating the possibility of holding a McGill University conference on an N.F.C.U.S. revival

Pre-Med Society To Hold Meeting

Dr. Baxter To Speak;
Dance To Be Held
Friday, Nov. 17th.

The Pre-medical Society held a business meeting yesterday with Bill Finland, the president, presiding.

Mike Blais presented an outline of the plans for the dance to be held Friday, Nov. 17th in the Union ballroom. Refreshments and entertainment will be provided. Tickets are 60c and can be secured at the Tuck shop, from members of the executive committee, and after the meeting next Tuesday. Only members of the Society, medical students and nurses will be admitted.

Because of the large number of members a motion was passed to exclude non-members from Pre-medical functions. Membership, however, is not restricted. It was also moved that a quorum of 25 members would be necessary.

Because of the Health lectures, meetings will be held on Thursday instead of Tuesday. Dr. Baxter, however, will speak on Tuesday as previously arranged. Dr. Baxter a plastic surgeon, will address the Society and will show three films. Membership cards must be shown at the door.

Stag Dance Follows Game To Take Place Tomorrow

A Stag Dance will again be held tomorrow in the Union Ballroom at 5 p.m. following the game between McGill and the Verdun Grads at Molson Stadium. Dancing will continue till 8 p.m.

The music will be by Don Cameron and his Orchestra and refreshments will be served in the Union Grillroom.

The Executive has extended an invitation to all members of both teams and also to the members of the Scarlet Key, and to the cheerleaders.

Tickets may be obtained at the Union Tuck Shop or from members of the Scarlet Key at the game for 35 cents apiece.

Miss Kobayashi Addresses SLC In Union Grill

Japanese Question
Results in Resolution
Passed by Members

The S.L.C. voted full support of the resolution passed by the Student Executive Council protesting the exclusion of otherwise eligible Canadian students of Japanese origin from the university, at a meeting held in the Grill Room yesterday afternoon. The S.L.C. resolution was preceded by a statement opposing any discrimination in the university on racial grounds.

The meeting was addressed by Miss Betty Kobayashi, Canadian Japanese anti-fascist. Miss Kobayashi expressed her conviction that only fighting for tolerance among all the peoples of Canada will vanquish intolerance and make possible the achievement of the common aims of all Canadians.

Loyalty, she said, "does not depend on the color of a person's skin or the shape of the eyes," and she quoted from documents received from young Japanese-Canadians in various parts of Canada, expressing their desire and determination to fight in every way possible against fascism in every country.

Radio Workshop Records at CBC

Remaining Groups
Meet in Music Room
For New Castings

The McGill Radio Workshop will record William Kozlenko's "My Mothers Never Weep", performed by the club's intermediate group, at 2:00 this afternoon in the studios of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, King's Hall Building, St. Catherine Street West. The play will be produced by Duncan Cameron and directed by Charles Wassermann, and is the first recording for this group this year, though the third for the Workshop as a whole, according to last night's official press release.

At the same time, the remainder of the Workshop, comprising the senior and junior groups, will meet at 2:30 p.m. in the Music Room of the McGill Union, where Victor Goldbloom, president of the organization, will make an announcement which he described last night as of very great importance and affecting the entire future program of the Workshop.

Casting will be completed among the senior group, under Goldbloom's direction, for the Norman Corwin play "Mary and the Fairy," on which work was begun last week; the junior group, it was announced, will be cast for a new script and latter taken to the CBC studios to watch the recording of "My Mothers Never Weep."

Courses in January, Additional Summer Ones Considered Under Plan

Projects for Accommodation Of More Veterans Proposed

By FRED CLEMAN
(Daily Staff Writer)

Executive action is being taken to set up by January, machinery to accommodate ex-servicemen currently applying for entrance to the university, according to a dispatch released by the principal's office late yesterday afternoon.

This may require the institution of additional courses for students who commence their work in January rather than in September, as well as special courses in the summer session. Professor David A. Keys, appointed as director of Special Courses (ex-servicemen students), will act as chairman of a committee delegated to do this work.

In a report presented to the Board of Governors by the Time Table Committee, it was indicated that although the university certainly needs new buildings for its long run development, it can in its existing buildings accommodate many more students than at present to meet the emergency.

Estimated Accommodations

It is estimated that if some of the suggestions are used and depending somewhat on the choice of courses and whether there is any restriction on choice, the following numbers can be accommodated:

- a. Engineering—three times the present number.
- b. Arts, Commerce—three times the present number.
- c. Honours B.Sc.—twice the present registration.
- d. General B.Sc.—twice to two and a half times the present number.

Suggestions

Among the suggestions made were that by making the University day from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and lectures from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., the number of hours for lectures could be increased, making possible a greater number of laboratory and tutorial sessions. Lecture sections could be made larger by using the largest lecture room without regard for the building in which it is.

A senior lecturing staff of approximately the present size could give more lectures by distributing the hours at which lectures are offered by one department through the day and assigning the times for

Amalgamated Charity Campaign Has Objective of Dollar a Head

Drive Will Be Sponsored by War Council
To Be Conducted for One Week
Beginning November 16

With a stated objective of a dollar a head from all the students on the campus, the amalgamated Charities Drive will be conducted for one week starting on Nov. 16.

Sponsored by the War Council, and under the co-chairmanship of Ruth Hill and Bob Cameron, the campaign will be run by the presidents and delegates they appoint from each faculty. All classes are to have individual organizers, and the plans are to include one collector for each 25 students on the campus.

Past Drives of this nature have netted considerable sums of money, but the endeavor this year is aimed at a record. Lists of all names in various classes are being drawn up, and the request is for a dollar signed after each name. Cameron, in discussing the Drive yesterday afternoon said that the best arrangement for students contributing to this cause would be to arrive at McGill on Monday morning with a dollar in their pocket specifically for the Drive, and to keep it in their pockets until a class collector calls for it. In this way whenever the student is approached, the dollar will be there.

Amalgamated Charities on the campus is McGill's contribution to the pooled efforts of all the city's organized charities, Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish. Amounts collected are sent to this pool for distribution, and the proportion listed.

It is felt by many of the executive that a program of this nature needs no appeals attached to it and efforts will be made to publicize the drive as much as possible to be sure that all

The Flower

I picked a flower from the garden bed,
Tended it with care,
Gazed in rapture
On its beauty fair.
Then suddenly
Its bloom was gone and fading it lay dead.

You gods who created this fragile flower,
The softest dawn, the varying night,
The sunlit splendour and sweet twilight,
Give it back to me for one short hour
That I might give my admiration
To the fairest in all creation,
And that hour would seem to be
Far more than all eternity.

International Influences

The international influence on dress is an interesting one. It rises and falls according to the focus of attention on any one country, according to the amount of travel done by soldiers in time of war, and according to the ingenuity of tourists in picking up and assimilating articles of clothing from the countries they visit.

The "sympathetic" influence:

It is a good time for examples of this form of influence. China, Russia and South America are all drawn on for inspiration by the designers as the people of this continent focus their attention on these nations, seeking to sympathize with them and to understand.

Chinese fashions are a leading theme this year. Unconsciously sponsored by the visits of the piquant Madame Chiang Kai-shek, two-piece dresses with a high embroidered neckline and a long belted jacket have had considerable success in the "high-fashion" world.

Russian fashions, more readily adaptable to Canada because of the parallel climates, provide another contemporary example of the international influence. High Russian boots, camouflaged as after-ski boots, have made a visit that promises to be fairly permanent. Fur coats, too, have evolved into styles that show definite Cossack influences, with their swinging three-quarter length skirts and their wide belts.

As for the South American influence,—here we find an interesting variation. Instead of the designers following the direction of sympathy and answering an already sub-consciously created demand, the men who make fashion go down to the Latin-American countries, copy styles of dress and motifs, and bring them back to show the north what it's missing. The designers, of course, find support in the current political interest in South America and in the belief that the S.A. continent is the up-and-coming post-war world. But it is important to notice that the interest in South America is of a different nature to that in China and Russia. In these last, the attitude is one of affirmation and of admiration. In South America, it is an attitude of curiosity and expectancy.

Be that as it may, the Latin countries are contributing much to North American fashion. Their love of vivid color points to a gayer N.A. wardrobe, especially where summer clothes are concerned. Their shawls, and skirts and huaraches (sandals) have already found a happy reception.

The soldier influence:

It is an old story,—how in time of war, the men who go off to fight return to their women with "souvenirs" of the dress of the country they have visited. Jewellery, in particular, has had an international career in this respect.

After this war, you may well expect to see women wearing necklaces which "John brought back from Italy, you know," and there'll be trinkets from India, and rings from France, and maybe even ivory from China.

The tourist influence:

When the tourist trade returns to the world again, we shall see how much it affects fashion. The story of the lady who shops a little here and there, who picks up a silver bracelet in New Mexico and a hair-do in Paris reminds one somewhat of Shakespeare's remark on her male counterpart: "I think, he bought his doublet in Italy, his round hose in France, his bonnet in Germany, and his behaviour everywhere."

The moral: Wear the clothes of other countries as much as you like, but don't look like a human performance of the "Internationale".

Time and Tide

Stephen Leacock, M.D.

The late Stephen Leacock — "McGill's greatest literary representative," as last May's Convocation Daily termed him—was known around the world for the active wit of his conversation and the endless fund of his stories.

One of his first and one of his favorites was a story he told about himself, an incident of his younger days which he always claimed to be the undiluted truth. He was a very recent graduate, sporting an imposing Ph.D. in economics, and on the ocean cruise he took that summer he summoned all his self-admiration and signed the passenger list as Dr. Leacock.

Sure enough, about three days out of port, he was standing conspicuously by the rail when a steward rushed up to him and demanded if he was Dr. Leacock. He was of course, and the steward begged him most respectfully to come immediately to a cabin below where a young girl lay in agony from a twisted ankle.

Expanding with importance, Dr. Leacock hurried to his first case. "I hurried as fast as I could," he related, "but unfortunately I was just too late. Another chap had gotten there before me—he was a Doctor of Divinity."

An Anthology Of McGill Verse 1939-1944

The Anthology is being readied for press at the present time, but late contributions may be submitted for the remainder of this week only.

Poems must have been written between October 1939 and November 1944. All types of poetry may be submitted, including free verse.

Contributions may already have appeared in print, but must have been written during the specified period by students who were attending McGill within those years.

Each student or ex-student may make as many entries as desired, on condition that every entry falls within the above-mentioned class.

All contributions should be typewritten and submitted in duplicate. Entries should be addressed to "An Anthology of McGill Verse," care of Walter Reed, Arts Building.

From the University of Montreal

My subject this week will be the various organizations of the student world of the University of Montreal.

Every student of the University belongs to our two main organizations, his faculty association and the general student body association commonly known as the A.G.E.U.M. (Association generale des Etudiants de l'Universite de Montreal).

The different faculties have their own organizations, such as the Dental Fraternity, the H.E.C. (the members of which are students of l'Ecole des Hautes Etudes Commerciales), the Association of Law Students and so forth.

Each of these groups has at its head an executive committee composed of a president, a vice-president, a secretary, a treasurer, and members representing each class of the said faculty. Also on the executive is a delegate from the faculty to the A.G.E.U.M. The topics of discussion at the meetings are questions of particular interest to the students.

The A.G.E.U.M. has, like all associations, a large executive elected by all the students of the University. The president is selected each year from a different faculty. Mr. Sylvain Cousineau, student in pharmacy, is this year's president. Next year, the choice for the presidency will be made among law students. This executive comprises a delegate from every faculty, who is the official link of communication between his fellow classmen, and the other representatives.

This organization, furthermore, includes what we call constitutives, such as the Quartier Latin, la Societe des debats, l'association atletique, la Societe artistique.

The Quartier latin is our official weekly paper, and offers student viewpoint on various subjects of importance.

Our Debating Society, which will inaugurate its season the 23rd of the present month, aims to develop in the students their oratorical capacities as well as their sense of humour.

The different sports which appeal to students such as hockey, basketball, skiing, and various indoor activities are all in the sphere of the athletic association.

Last year the Societe Artistique brought to the students many educational as well as recreational moments. Four concerts, with Alexander Kipnis as guest vocalist in one of them and Mr. Defauw directing the orchestra of Les Concerts Symphoniques de Montreal on another occasion, were presented.

This year we are to have five concerts, the first of which will take place this evening in the auditorium. Hertha Glaz, famous contralto of the Metropolitan, will be the featured artist.

Every noon for a period of thirty minutes, this same society presents recitals of symphonic music. This pause in the day's work brings us the great composers, Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Debussy, Sibelius, as a moment of pleasant relaxation.

This is but a brief survey of the activities of the student body of the University of Montreal. During the course of the year, I hope to be able to treat more extensively of our various other associations.

Wine and Song

by D.E.W.

The days when women wept unhappily and were mentally tormented because of unfaithfulness, the days when Creseyde wept over her desertion of Trollos, are gone. As Bret Harte so clearly expressed it:

"If, of all the words of tongue and pen,
The saddest are, 'It might have been,'
More sad are these we daily see
"It is, but hadn't ought to be."

We nostalgically think of the charming and handsome knights, who cherished and rescued their beautiful maidens, and we wish we were living in that time of "beauty for everyone" and shining armour in place of tails.

Yes, those were beautiful days, sentiment and courtesy abounded, but then,—women didn't go to university. The equalization of women with men has caused a lot of furor. The men argue that women, being on an equal status with men need be offered no more consideration than other men. The women, on the other hand, claim that they are still the female sex, and as such are worthy of the courtesy they have received in former years.

But what has Emily Post to say on the matter? I don't know. Let us take the question of who should light who's cigarette first. Emily Post suggests that the male should light the match. The Manitoban (University of Manitoba newspaper) suggests that the male should light his cigarette first, in case there are sulphur fumes released.

Political Comment

SOCIAL HATREDS

Our great-grandfather, Anthropology Adam, lived in a society of classes, just as we do. There were two classes, the strong and the weak. The strong ruled the world, the weak changed it. Anthropology Adam lived in a society completely devoid of cultural and religious ideologies, yet social hatreds existed then as they do now.

Mankind of every age is confronted with the necessity of preserving itself, with the necessity of acquiring the material commodities so important for its existence. It was as a result of this struggle to produce these life-sustaining material commodities that man developed his ideas, his religion, his philosophy of life and also his social hatreds. At all times existing ideas and social hatreds bear a direct relation to the existing system of production; the former is an outgrowth of the latter. Anthropology Adam, because he was only an average individual, could not compete with the strong, in the existing primitive system of production which required brute strength only. It was his frustration and his social hatred of the strong, who appropriated most of the existing material commodities, that caused Anthropology

Adam to discover and use the club and the spear.

During the Feudal Ages the system of production was a domestic one. Man produced things for immediate home consumption, and as a result the field of productivity was narrow; also there was no need for improved methods of production since this could only result in surpluses of perishable goods, i.e., in waste. As a consequence there was no incentive for scientific research and development. Men were aware of great forces at play in nature but lacking scientific approach and information they fell victim to all sorts of superstitions and to all sorts of social hatreds growing out of these superstitions.

Social hatred due to religious intolerance was only too common. But this in the final analysis was only another way by which the ruling classes controlled and exploited the ignorant, superstitious serfs. The church was after all the wealthiest and most powerful feudal landlord and just as it was in its interest to keep the serfs ignorant and superstitious so it was in its interest to make the serf believe that some minority with different religious and ideological beliefs, was the cause of all his misery on earth. These were the dark ages.

It might also be interesting to note that due to the fact that every Feudal Manor was a self-sufficient cell, no strong feeling of nationalism was to be found even among definite language groups.

The age of the Crusades brought with it a demand for new articles, which stimulated trade. This caused production gradually to change from production for home use only, to production for a market and for profit. Trade involved the sending of ships to all points of the globe. These ships had to be protected from pirates. In order to carry on trade it was necessary to introduce a standard system of protective laws. It is not surprising, therefore, that we find a growing feeling of nationalism and desire for a centralized government at this time.

To satisfy an ever expanding market required improved means of production and ever widening fields of productivity. With all this incentive, science was called into being and it in turn ushered in the Industrial Revolution and the Renaissance. Of course, the landed feudal nobility resisted all this change, and it required such things as the French Revolution, the Cromwell Rebellion, Peasants' Revolts etc., to actually firmly establish the age of capitalism.

With the invention of steam and electrical power human productive capacity was enormously increased. This brought with it the myth of overproduction and the grim reality of slums, depressions and imperialist wars. The lower classes frustrated both economically and socially, were only too glad to grab for straws which promised to alleviate their often miserable condition; the straws they got were red-hot needles of social hatred. Negroling, Jewish pogroms, international suspicion and hatred, fear and disunity, these were the channels into which the most reactionary of the ruling classes lead the growing feeling of discontent of the masses. At all costs keep the masses from finding out the real source of their troubles. Nationalism was fostered and developed to facilitate the acquiring of sufficient cannon fodder to fight the battles of the trusts and cartels, the bankers and munition magnates. Witness what happened in Germany.

Social hatreds stem from economic inequalities. This problem cannot be solved by telling people to be good and charitable and to follow the laws of God. You cannot cure a man suffering from a cancerous growth by telling him to get

McGILL 'B' SQUAD CLASHES WITH MAC

Red and White Gridders Face Ste. Anne's Team In Concluding Match

Second Stringers Set for Game; MacCavour, Johnson Lead Squad

Tomorrow afternoon, out at St. Anne de Bellevue, the second McGill Senior squad will take on the Macdonald College football team. This game will finally decide the superiority of the winning squad for in the two games previously played each one of the College teams garnered one win. The tilt will probably be the last this season for both squads and will close a very successful series of exhibition games between them.

At one o'clock tomorrow afternoon the McGill team will mount a bus and head for the green pastures of the Agricultural College while their confederates, the "A" McGill squad, will take on the Verdun Grads in their last game of the year.

Amongst those going out to play the Yellow and Green squad for McGill will be "Red" MacCavour who starred in both previous games by scoring the only touchdowns gathered by the local team. He has shown himself to be a triple threat man plunging beautifully, as he did to score his two touchdowns, and sending long kicks into enemy territory in emergencies. His passing has been outstanding as can be shown in the fact that his squad gained plenty of yards in the two matches due to it.

Also accompanying the Second McGill squad will be Ralph Johnson who will play his initial game against Macdonald. He didn't participate in the previous two games due to injuries he received earlier in the season. But from his appearances in practice both at the beginning of the year and during the last few days Johnny Bennett's claim that he now has a good kicker will probably be justified. For in the scrimmages lately Johnson has been raising punts of 60 and 65 yards fairly regularly. The question of whether he will be able to match Wallen of Macdonald can however not be answered till tomorrow afternoon.

Fighting Halfback
Also back in the McGill fold after an absence of a week and a half, due to injuries, may be Clint MacEachern, fighting halfback, who sparked his teams in many plays in the last few matches played. Matching him on the line will be "Eel-hipped" Corkran who wriggled his way through the Yellow and Green team fairly often to gain yards for the local squad.

Sparking Macdonald will probably be Privett who has done a very good job quarterbacking the St. Anne's team. Playing a heady game in the last match he led his squad to an 8-6 victory over the Red Collegians. Though not present in the first tilt his team put up a hard fight in losing the match 5-0. Lacking his steady effect the Yellow and Green were a little disorganized and this probably helped the McGill team to garner this win.

Wallen should be back in the match tomorrow afternoon kicking his unusually long "boots" to again help his squad against the local team.

The same squad that has played the last two games for McGill, with the exception of John Piper and Eric Jackalin, who are to play for the first team, will again engage the Macdonald team.

Canadiens Win Swamping Hawks By 9-2 Count

Richard, Blake, Lach Turn On Pressure Scoring Six Goals

The war-whoop of the Black-hawks turned to low moans as our high flying Montreal Canadiens swamped the Chicago club under a 9-2 count. Paced by the power line of Lach, Blake and Richard, the Frenchmen poured on the power after being held for two periods.

For the first half of the game the score was close. Lach scored for the home team in the first period only to have this tied by Fraser of the Hawks. In the second frame Gelliffe once more put les Canadiens ahead but again Fraser nullified the tally by a lightning count. Throughout the early stages of the game the Canadiens kept the Hawks hemmed into their own zone and Gauthier, Blake, O'Connor and several others were robbed time and time again by Karakas in the visitors' nets.

However, with the third goal by Canadiens, the Hawks fell apart. This tally was a picture play with Richard converting a Blake pass for the point. From then on it was a rout with Lach getting another goal, Richard two and Blake, O'Connor and Rossignol notching singletons. The powerful Canadiens defence with their heavy checking took the strength and fight out of the Chicago players who were on the defensive even when down seven goals.

Richard, Blake and Lach counted 18 scoring points among themselves and Coach Irvin put them in when ever he wanted to raise the score. The Canadiens of last night were reminiscent of last year's power packed squad and by continuing this type of playing Toronto will more than have its hands full this Saturday.

Film Society Presents 'Attack' in Biol. Bldg.

The second of the Film Society's series of presentations this year will take place today in Room 250 of the Biology Building when the Documentary Film "ATTACK" will be screened.

Filed by cameramen of the United States Signal Corps, "ATTACK" has been classified as one of the most notable documentaries to come out of the South Pacific war zone. It is the story of the three American task forces assigned to the retaking of Tarawa and Cape Gloucester in New Britain.

Its graphic presentation and authenticity as revealed by a preview should serve as a warning to those who imagine that the war would end with Germany and that the war against the Japanese is still the greatest menace of the present world wide conflict.

N.D.H.L. OPENER MONDAY

THE SPORTS SCENE

By ALLAN KNIGHT

THE SKI TRAILS

The other day an interesting series of articles appeared in the Quartier Latin, official organ of the students of the University of Montreal, concerning skiing. It should be of interest to us that they have started to prepare for a banner season in this sport, because they intend to take over the top spot in Canadian Intercollegiate ski circles after the war.

This threat to McGill's pre-war superiority is a good thing, for it should make us seek to hold our hard-earned laurels, and there is no harder taskmaster than the threat of close competition. The fact is that the U. of M. should be commended for their ambition. They have engaged first rate competitive ski coaches, have already started pre-season calisthenics, and are preparing for their second successive local Intercollegiate meet.

Last year, in an invitation meet, they defeated Laval and McGill. Unfortunately, the Red entries were not organized as a team, but as a group of individuals without direct backing from the university. This year some strides have been made to improve the situation. A ski team is in the formative stages, and a manager and assistant have been appointed. Possibly we will again lose out, but the important thing will be that the groundwork will have been laid out for the post-war International Intercollegiate meets.

PAST GLORIES

It might be appropriate to say that before the war, McGill was the team to beat in skiing along with Dartmouth. With the present setup, things have been sliding off, but there is every indication that the future will see the Redmen take their rightful place. The McGill Ski Team was formed in 1914, grew rapidly, and had much to do with making skiing a major sport around here. We were an important cog in the old Intercollegiate Ski Association, and in the new Union.

Although Dartmouth won the majority of the meets, their stiffest competition came from the McGill team. Probably the reason for the Green teams consistent superiority is that they have had superior training and coaching, as well as the finest skiing country in New England.

Some of the greatest skiers have come up from Intercollegiate ranks. McGill has been fortunate enough to have had such top-notchers as Johannsen, Pangman, Thompson, Mann, Grayson-Bell, Maxwell, as well as Ball and Danton, to mention a few.

CAMPUS SPORTS ROUNDUP

Now that the cold weather is almost upon us, we should note that our hockey and basketball entries are starting their season schedules. Wednesday night saw the curtain raiser for the cagers, and it was an improvement to note that about two handfuls of students saw the games in the invitation tournament, instead of the usual one. Perhaps when the schedule actually gets under way the student body will support their team, which has a very good chance of coming out on top. Most of last year's stars have returned, while the addition of some American hoopsters and a former Georgian, Roth, gives the Red team its strongest squad in some years. The Intermediates are as yet an unknown quantity, but may prove to be the dark horse of their section in the Montreal Basketball League.

The hockey squad has its first test on Monday night at the Forum, when the N.D.H.L. gets started. On paper the team is as formidable as any of its opponents, but only actual competition can tell the true merits. The service teams have the advantage of being able to pick up former stars, now in the service. In past seasons, McGill has put up good showings, but their inability to hold back former professionals and Senior Groupers caused their downfall. This is another year, though, and with such players as John Costigan, Bruce Ward, George Hale and Bob Brodick, the team should give a good account of itself.

The only real complaint is again the lack of support of the campus for its team. Last year several attempts were made to rouse the students from their lethargy, but no results were forthcoming. It is a sad day when five or ten students show up as the only representatives of McGill to cheer the teams. But this is another year, and let's make it another story. What say, students.

Med. Delegates Meet in Montreal

Dr. J. C. Meakins To Address Banquet This Saturday Night

The eighth annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Medical Students and Internes will take place at the University of Montreal and the Montreal Botanical Gardens, and will feature an address by Dr. J. C. Meakins, dean of the faculty of medicine of McGill University.

50 delegates will attend the meeting, representing the following nine Canadian universities: University of Alberta, Dalhousie, University, Laval University, University of Montreal, McGill University, University of Toronto, Queen's University, University of Western Ontario.

Sessions will open Friday morning at the University of Montreal at 10 a.m. when Mgr. Olivier Maurault, principal of the University of Montreal, and Dr. Edmond Dube, dean of the faculty of medicine, will welcome delegates. Dr. Pierre Masson, professor of anatomical pathology, will address the afternoon session. Dr. Meakins will address a banquet meeting at the Windsor Hotel on Saturday night. All sessions will be conducted by Jacques Lussier, fifth year medical student at the University of Montreal.

The conference will conclude on Sunday morning with a business meeting and election of officers at the Montreal Botanical Garden.

Rifle Club Will Meet At Gym On November 16

The executive of the Rifle Club has announced that a meeting will be held in the projection room of the Currie Gymnasium on Thursday, November 16, at 5.15 p.m. Newcomers who attend the meeting will be told how the club functions and what its general purpose is, and a suitable day for practice shooting will be chosen.

All those who are interested in this sport are expected to turn out, and prospective members who are in the C.O.T.C., the U.A.S., or the U.N.T.D. are

McGill's Hockey Plans Receive Severe Jolt With Injury of Farmer

Absence of Dependable Forward Weakens Redmen Considerably

Coach Bobby Bell and the McGill hockey team were dealt a hard blow at yesterday's practice when it was learned that flashy Bud Farmer had suffered a recurrence of an old injury and will be unable to play for at least three months. Farmer is one of McGill's outstanding pucksters, and was a star in the National Defence Hockey League last year until an injury forced him to the sidelines. He will be sorely missed.

Gillespie Victor In Harrier Race On Mount Royal

Weather Conditions Hamper Competitors; Meds Lead Faculties

Yesterday afternoon the annual McGill Harrier Race was held over a three mile course on Mount Royal, with Andy Gillespie, first year Med student, coming out the victor. Gillespie covered the distance in 18 minutes and 20 seconds, to beat out Farmer, a Science 1 man by less than half a minute.

The meet was run on an Inter-faculty basis, with the Meds gaining first, fifth and sixth place, the Engineers third and fourth, and Science second.

Gillespie is an experienced distance runner around McGill, and placed second in the five mile Dunlop Race held last year. No Dunlop Race has yet been planned for this year. In the recent telegraphic meet held with Toronto, Gillespie placed second in the 880 yard run and third in the two mile event.

The race was held under somewhat poor weather conditions. Rain during the afternoon made the mountain road muddy, and a cold wind proved to be an uncomfortable weather factor.

Following are the results:

	Time
(1) Gillespie (Med. 1)	18.20
(2) Farmer (Sc. 1)	18.46
(3) Bishop (Eng. 2)	18.50
(4) Vandray (Eng. 3)	19.47
(5) Bayne (Med. 2)	20.15
(6) Goodwin (Med. 2)	21.03

Open Forum Set For Thursday

Science And Religion To Be Discussed By Staff and Students

The second Open Forum on the topic "Science and Religion" will be held on Thurs. Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. in the Union Grill Room. Among the members of the staff leading the discussion will be Professors C. P. Martin of Anatomy, R. D. MacLennan of Philosophy, G. J. Dodd of Engineering, and Rev. Principal Ferguson of the Diocesan College.

The first joint meeting of this kind, at which the discussion centered about the roles Sciences and Religion have played and will play in human affairs was held towards the end of the past session under reminded that they are eligible for entry in the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association championship shoots which will commence early next year.

Notwithstanding this piece of bad news, the remainder of the team is shaping up nicely. Johnny Costigan, will probably take over Farmer's place to form a new Punch Line of Costigan, Pitfield, and Hale. Pitfield is a newcomer to the McGill hockey ranks. A former star with the Montreal Royals, he has been showing up very well in practice, and should be a heavy factor in the Redmen's quest for the title. Costigan and Hale need no introduction to the hockey faithful; both were mainstays of last year's team, a team which held its own in a league that, at the beginning of the year, was supposed to have been much too strong for the Red squad.

Defence Dependables

Patrolling the defence lanes will be those two dependables, Bruce Ward and Bob Brodick. This duo was outstanding in the N.D.H.L. last year, and will unquestionably be a tower of strength on the defence this year.

The position of goalkeeper is as yet undecided. Coach Bell is finding it pretty difficult to fill the boots of starry Bill Nimijean. However, three men are being considered for the position. They are Chuck Hendershott, Phil Layton, and newcomer Gobell, who worked between the pipes for Bishop's College.

Other Candidates

Other men who have been turning out regularly and showing

BRIDGE CLUB

The Executive of the Duplicate Bridge Club wishes to announce a change in the regulations covering playing arrangements. From now on, a representative of each team playing in the Club must telephone Bill Brown at Elwood 8330 before 6 p.m. of each night the Club is scheduled to meet. This will obviate the difficulties recently encountered in arranging order of play and will assist in splitting teams up to provide the best possible competition.

Should any team fail to 'phone in, they will be unable to play that night; if, on the other hand, they 'phone in and then fail to appear on time, they will be suspended. It is learned that membership is now complete and no more teams can be accommodated.

BADMINTON TOURNEY

A badminton elimination tourney will be highlighted this Saturday from 7.30 p.m. sharp, to about 10.30 p.m. at the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium.

All badminton aspirants are invited to participate in the meet. Shuttles will be provided at the gym but the racquets must be brought along.

well or to pray to God. This man has to be treated by competent doctors trained in science and medicine. The cancer of social hatreds can be removed from society by establishing the necessary social and economic conditions in society. What are these conditions?

Society must guarantee every man who desires to work the right to work and to receive decent wages for that work. Every man must have a right to a decent home and a decent education in conjunction with his ability. Security, culture, education which teaches people not only science and the classics but how to live like human beings must be available for everybody. This may have been a Utopian dream a hundred years ago, it is a practical reality now. Industry can produce enough for everybody. The paradox of poverty amidst plenty becomes unnecessary in the light of ever advancing science.

What can we do to begin to rid ourselves of the scourge of social hatreds? The free peoples of the world despite their social differences have united to destroy fascism, the very symbol of social and racial hatred; we must maintain this unity in the peace. We must hold fast to the reforms achieved during the war and we must continue working for more. We must not let the reactionaries return us to the days of the "hungry thirties", the days of breadlines and long lines of unemployed. We the students of the world, who are not fighting for the better world but must earn our place in it by casting away our apathy and coming out of our sheltered citadels. We the future leaders and members of society must help destroy the basis for social hatreds by helping to make this world a place where men do not have to compete for the right to live decently but have the inalienable right to live decently. Science has made the coming of the better world inevitable; shall we who help to improve and further science close our eyes to reality?

his unqualified approval of the Blood Donor Drive. All members of the C.O.T.C. who can produce proof of having donated blood will be excused from one parade, he said.

Addressing Coy No. 4 and the C.O.T.C. band, Lieutenant Dick Wright, who is a veteran of the Mediterranean and North Atlantic battles, and now a law student at McGill, said, "As college students we have relatively few opportunities to serve our country. As for those of you who tried to enlist and were rejected on physical grounds, Blood Donation is a very concrete way of fulfilling your desire to serve your country. 'For all of us,' he continued, 'it is a great privilege to be at college at a time like this, and it should be obvious that we have a definite obligation in contributing in a small way to a most essential need.'"

To the 170 cadets who were present Major stated that the C.O.T.C. authorities were trying to assist in every possible way to make the campaign a success. Cards were distributed to all the cadets and roles were called to keep a check on the donors.

Miss Kobayshi Addresses SLC

Miss Kobayshi pointed out that the population of Canada is made up of 80 per cent British and French, with the largest minority group being 43,000 people of German origin, the Japanese-Canadian group comprising only 23,000 people of which the great majority are Canadian citizens.

The discussion which followed the speaker's address led to the adoption of the resolution opposing exclusion from the university of Japanese-Canadians on racial grounds, and protesting any racial discrimination in the university.

Arts and Crafts Exhibition

Here at McGill considerable stress is laid upon the encouragement of creative work in the field of literature whereas the arts and crafts tend to assume negligible importance. The arts and crafts do not receive enough recognition and its members are for the most part unaware of each other. Yet discussion and criticism are most essential to progress and development in any medium. The forthcoming exhibition exists to fill this need and to constitute a common focus for crafts and craftsmen, art and artists.

In time of war a nation needs more than ever the stimulus of creative expression. A nation's unity rests upon its culture and upon the encouragement and development of that culture in just as much as it depends upon the unity and integrity of government. For the nation is only as great as its culture.

Entries from undergraduates, graduates, and staff-members are welcome. The Executive Committee reserves the privilege of rejecting unsuitable material but that should not discourage you. There is a lot of good creative talent in arts and crafts at McGill and the exhibition is designed to give these mediums an outlet and a chance for display.

The keynotes of the exhibition will be craftsmanship in any field and practical application of design to modern living. It is hoped this year to exhibit not only finished products but wherever possible to show the processes by which these objects were made, and it is stressed that original design for exhibitions should reflect the creative spirit of the University.

HOSKIN STATEMENT

In an interview with The Daily, Major E. D. E. Hoskin, President of the Veterans' Association, issued the following statement: "This is a very commendable program and will enable discharged men to recommence their education with the minimum of time wasted. Experience gained now in adjusting timetables to suit a few veterans will be invaluable after the war when ex-servicemen will be coming to McGill in ever-increasing numbers."

Official Release

Following is the release from the Principal's Office.

In order that McGill University may effectively carry out the recommendations that have been made by the Faculty of Arts and Science and by the Faculty of Engineering, as well as the recommendations that have come from the Post-War Problems Committee of the Senate, the Board of Governors at its meeting on November 8th appointed Professor David A. Keys as Director of Special Courses (ex-service students).

Professor Keys will immediately assume responsibility for the working out of special programmes for the ex-service men, who are returning to the University at the present time, in order that the University may effectively provide for their admission at various dates during the course of the normal academic session. This may require the institution of additional courses for students who commence their work in January rather than in September, as well as special courses in the summer session, and one of the important responsibilities placed by the Board of Governors on Professor Keys involves the recommendation to the Board of the arrangements necessary for the operation of such special courses, including the appointment of additional teaching personnel. All of these arrangements will be worked out in consultation with the Deans of the Faculties concerned, and with the members of the teaching departments that are directly involved, but the appointment of Professor

Keys, with executive powers, centralizes the responsibility for the development of a comprehensive programme to meet the urgent needs of ex-service students.

EATON'S
"Dress-Ups"
For Young Co-Eds!

There's nothing like dressy, glittery accessories to transform you from the casual co-ed in the lecture room to the smooth knockout on the dance floor. Glamorous belts, lush roses, filmy scarfs, sparkling hair-band — they all do the trick! P.S.: If you're one of the lucky gals dated up for the prom tonight —drop in at EATON'S and let us help dress you up!

Beau Catcher
A bit of sparkle for your hair —a bit of dream stuff to catch your beau's eyes (and hold 'em). Black rayon velvet bicycle clip band and bow with coloured sequin trim. Each 1.00

Glitter Band
Of black rayon velvet to tie around a sleekly coiffed flat top hair-do —embellished with brightly twinkling sequins in a host of colours and black. Each 1.39. Others at 1.25

Rosey Evening
A fashion that is sweeping New York right off its feet, with Montreal running a close second. Luscious big red, pink or cerise roses of rayon and velvet to perch on your hip or in your hair. Each 3.00. Others at 4.00

Fob Belt
Something new has been added to belts and this time it's a gold colour metal fob that swings debonairly from an inky black or chocolate brown suede belt. Super smart with sports clothes. Each 5.00

Date Headgear
A filmy rayon sheer scarf to tie around your curls when it's cold and blowing. Designed to give you that soft, feminine, dreamy look. In a blaze of luscious colours. Each 2.95
